CONCENSUS OF CONSERVATIVE OPINION

The more conservative Republican papers in the east acknowledge that the late civil service order of President McKinley is a step backward. While it is probably true that some of the exemptions made were recommended by heads of departments having the good of the service at heart, the issuance of the order, as a whole, was a concession to the spoilsmen, and will be so regarded, notwithstanding that perhaps it was not so far-reaching as some of them desired. They want the merit system broken down entirely, and instead of being satisfied with the patronage placed at their disposal by this order, they are more than likely to become emboldened into making still further attacks.

By reference to the report of the Civil Service Commission in 1897, it will be seen that President McKinley's sweeping order was not in accord with the views of the members of that body. In the report for that year, which we believe was the latest issued, the commission said in substance that the intention of the framers of the law was that comparatively few places should be excepted from open competitive examinations. Attention was called to the excepted positions as a growing evil. In that same report the commission expressed the belief "that the best interests of the service require that the civil service rules be extended to include the municipal service of the District of Columbia, the clerical force in the library of Congress and the clerical force of the next census." While nothing has been done by President McKinley towards extending the civil service rules as the commission recommended, and while the census bureau has been organized upon a distinctly spoils basis, the excepted positions of which the commission disapproves have been increased to the extent of about 5,000 places. Certainly the friends of civil service reform had a right to expect better things from an administration pledged by its party platform to strict observance of the system.

The above is a brief outline of the expressed opinions of a number of eastern Republican papers, which, while evidently reluctant to attack the motive of the President in issuing the order, and wanting to let him down as easily as possible, could or would not refrain from recording their protests against such a gross betrayal of trust and violation of a solemn pledge contained in the platform upon which he was nominated and elected. Every material construction of the civil service law is essentially a victory for the spoilsmen. The spoilsmen so regard it and the enormous majority of the people who are not spoilsmen so regard it.

PATRIOTIC SENTIMENT.

The JOURNAL believes that a great deal of unjust criticism and many unmerited harsh comments have been made against the Cuban soldiers who decline to give up their arms in exchange for the $75 offered each of them for doing so. Only a few of them have accepted the money which was offered, and those who refuse give the patriotic reason that they feel that they should not sell the arms with which they fought for freedom.

If this is the real sentiment actuating them, and so far there are no indications of any other motive for their action, the American people should congratulate the Cubans on the spirit they have shown. It has been suggested that the Cubans wish to keep their rifles for use against the United States. If they really expected or feared war with us, they would find it easy, with the money offered them, to buy newer and better arms than those they now have. If therefore, as seems probable, the Cubans have rejected our money for the sake of a strong and honorable sentiment, their action is a favorable argument for the future of the island.

THE MINT CHANGE.

Mint Superintendent R. K. Colcord returned yesterday morning from San Francisco. He stated to a JOURNAL reporter that he had received the notice of change of the mint to an assay office just before he left Carson. Superintendent Colcord's present official position will cease when the change is made, although it is not improbable that he will be appointed assayer in charge. That is the only Presidential appointment, as the executive appointee has the naming of all of the other employees at the institution.

The change will not seriously affect the bullion producers, as the mint has practically been nothing more than an assay office since coinage was suspended. Everybody, as before, can bring their metals there for assay and the government will continue to purchase all bullion that is offered which is 500 fine in gold.

EX-JUDGE ROBINSON of Carlin and O. C. Wallace entertained the Independent force this afternoon with a very entertaining argument on socialism, silver, tariff, the initiative and the referendum and all the other ills that now afflict or may afflict the people.—Elko Independent.

After this we shall look to the Independent for profound and erudite dissertations upon such obtruse questions of fundamental and underlying principles of political unfathomability and other things, as the average hayseed editor is unable to tackle. Don't be a hog, Brother Boomer, but give to your contemporaries and the world a few of the chunks of profundity and intellectuality which you absorbed from the Socrates of the nineteenth century.

A Gala Day For Reno.

The Susanville bicycle team arrived from the northern town on the N.-C. O. last evening. The team is in fine condition and eager to try conclusions with the Reno and Capitol City Wheelmen. The members of the Susanville team are Geo. F. Kelley, W. E. Brashear, W. J. Burchell, M. Swayne and Thos. A. Massey, Captain. The members of the Carson team are Kelley, Tranter, Peterson, Kitzmeyer and Muller. Those who will battle for Reno are W. Everett, Manuel Simas, Ed. Shaver, A. Eaton and W. A. Keddie.

The V. & T. railroad has fixed a special rate of $1.50 for round trip tickets from Virginia to Reno and $1 for round trip from Carson. A large crowd is expected from these two towns consequently preparations are being made to celebrate the occasion in truly holiday style. Without doubt it will be the most exciting bicycling event ever held in Reno.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong, I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00.

Trail bottles free at S. J. Hodgkin's Drug Store; every bottle guaranteed.

A Childish Question.

A correspondent wrote to the JOURNAL inquiring the difference between white men's and Indian poker. Although it appears a very silly question, the JOURNAL scribe will say that he presumes that the poker used by the aborigines is a small stick of mountain mahogany or some other kind of native wood, while the article used by white people is of iron, with generally a right angled bend at the lower part and a handle of steel, brass or some other metal.

The JOURNAL gives notice that it will answer no more such childish questions.

Will Soon Wed.

It is reported on good authority that the Rev. Pardee will soon wed Miss Lotta Sybil Howe of Carson. Miss Howe has just finished her education, graduating with high honors from the Nevada State Normal school last Wednesday. The Rev. Pardee has been here attending the University commencement exercises. It has not yet been announced when or where the wedding will take place, but it will probably be at the bride's home in Carson within the next few weeks.

Heavy Mortgage.

Evidently the N.-C.-O. railway owners mean business. A mortgage for the sum of $1,500,000 was placed on record yesterday, the same being made to the Moran Brothers of New York upon the N.-C.-O. property. The greater part of this large sum of money will be used in extending the road into the north. The revenue stamps on the document amounted to $749.50—not a small sum in itself.

To Whom It May Concern.

I have this day appointed C. A. Scott Sheep Inspector for Fish Springs precinct with full power to act as such officer, as provided by law.

J. W. LODER,
Inspector for Washoe County.

Machinery for Reduction Works.

New machinery for the electric reduction works is on its way to Reno from the east. It will be installed in two weeks time.

The bins at the works are full of ore and two or three carloads are arriving weekly.

Charles Richards, the expert assayer and mining man who has been in the employ of Prof. R. D. Jackson for some time, will leave Nevada next week on a trip through Utah, Arizona and Montana in search of tailing dumps that may be profitably worked by the cyanide process.

It has been discovered that puglist Fitzsimmons is a year younger than he claimed to be. That's nothing, considering the fact that Linky Bob is not a woman.

The JOURNAL was four days ahead of the Carson papers in giving the news of the change in the mint. If you want the news first-handed, read the JOURNAL.

Mrs. Tally, mother of Robert Tally, and Miss Little, who have been attending the commencement exercises, returned to their home in Virginia yesterday.

Dr. J. Warne Phillips, professor of chemistry and physics at the State University, will spend some time this summer rustication on a ranch near Clipper Gap.

ANOTHER BIG CUT IN PRICES

Prof. Howe, principal of the Carson public school, will have held his present position twenty-seven years next November, and he doesn't come under the civil service law either.

E. M. Sain of the Lovelock Tribune was in town yesterday. He reports everything flourishing at his burg and says that this year's acreage of wheat seeded land in the valley is double that of 1898.

W. G. M. Matt Kyle and Deputy J. M. McCormack left for Wadsworth yesterday morning to make an official visit to Wadsworth Lodge, F. and A. M., which held a stated communication last evening.

The first attempted trip of the traction engine between Elko and Tucorora has been temporarily abandoned, on account of the condition of the roads. The trial will be renewed when the roads improve.

Dr. W. McN. Miller has obtained leave of absence for a year from the State University. Dr. and Mrs. Miller will leave for the east in a few days. The doctor proposes to attend a term at the Johns-Hopkins University.

What's In a Name?

In an article on Indian names Mr. Frank Terry comments on the odd effect produced by giving rein to this fancy for distinguishing appellations in the renaming of Indians. Often their native names are unpronounceable and the translations long and not in accordance with our ideas of what is pleasing. So, instead of simply turning Bear-Sits-Down or Mule-Kicks-Up or Jumping Rabbit into English, the Indian is renamed entirely, and is given the first famous name that comes to mind.

"William Penn, Fitz-Hugh Lee, David B. Hill and William Shakespeare," says Mr. Terry, "are policemen at the Shoshone agency, Wyoming. Only a short while ago it was reported that on an Indian reservation in New Mexico William Breckinridge arrested John G. Carlisle for being drunk and disorderly."

"It would not surprise the reader of this should I say that I have seen George Washington, John Quincy Adams, Franklin Pierce, Rip Van Winkle, Allen G. Thurman and Hilary Herbert engaged together in a game of sheney. Yet this interesting spectacle I have gazed upon, and I have been the enforced witness to a severe spanking administered to James G. Blaine."—Yonk's Companion.

Lizards That Grow New Eyes.

The tuatara lizard of New Zealand is said to be one of the most ancient forms of animal life now existing. It originally possessed four eyes, but now has to be contented with but two. It lays eggs, and these take no less than 18 months to hatch out, the embryos passing the winter in a state of hibernation.

These remarkable animals are found only in one or two places in the colony, and they are rapidly becoming scarce, as collectors from every part of the world are continually on their track. They are about 18 inches in length, and, like many of the lizards, are said to have the characteristic of being able to replace portions of their limbs, etc., which have been destroyed. One owned by Mr. Carl Hansen of Awana had the misfortune to lose an eye some time ago, and now a complete new eye, as perfect as the undamaged one, has grown in the place of that lost.

While the eye was developing the lizard seemed to be no more inconvenient than a human being in the growing of finger nails or hair.

A MASTERLY ADDRESS.

Synopsis of the Speech Made in Reno by Dr. Eli McUllish, President of the University of the Pacific.

The subject was "The Education of the Heart." Not by ignoring the education of the intellect but by making them keep company each with the other, and an appropriate text for it was from Tennyson: "Let knowledge grow from more to more but more of reverence in us dwell and mind and soul according well, shall make music as before but vaster."

The speaker began his address with an extract from "The Life of Darwin" in which that distinguished scientist told how formerly he loved poetry and music, pictures and natural scenery but had lost all taste for either. Using his own words, "For many years I cannot endure to read a line of poetry; I have almost lost my taste for pictures and music; I retain some taste for fine scenery but it does not cause me the exquisite delight which it formerly did. My mind seems to have been a kind of thinking machine for grinding general laws out of collections of facts. But why this should have caused atrophy on that part of the brain alone on which the higher tastes depend, I cannot conceive. If I had to live my life again, I would make it a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. A loss of this taste is a loss of happiness and may possibly be injurious to the intellect and more probably to the moral character by enfeebling the emotional part of our nature."

Dr. McUllish emphasized the result of what Mr. Darwin here called the loss of the higher aesthetic tastes and said there was a tendency to place the emphasis upon the intellect and by neglect to do so for the youth and manhood of our civilization what Darwin did for himself. We should cultivate the higher sensibilities and not allow the poet brain within each of us to die from lack of sustenance. He then called attention to the address delivered a few years ago by President White of Cornell, "The Voice of the Nineteenth and Twentieth Century," in which the cry was "We have become a moral age. The poets, the artists, the ministers are passing and the strong minds are turning to impress instead of these professions that call for heart and higher sensibilities." He called attention to a celebrated statement of Charles Dickens in his "American Notes" in which the Americans were honoring men who are thoroughly disreputable because they were smart and finally to a suggestion in the last month from Professor Tuttle of Yale in which he believes that our higher education tends to make pessimist men who are out of sympathy with the joys and sorrows of the millions. In one word this age has scientific methods, rationalistic in its spirit and utility in its aim. "My object," he said, "is to place emphasis upon the thorough half of man's nature." He then went on to show Horace Bushnell, the preacher, Professor W. James of Harvard, the Psychologist, George John Romanes, the Scientist, and Professor Goldman Smith, the Historian, all recognize the importance even in the discernment of truth in the education of the heart. Professor Smith from the standpoint of the historian says: "The training of right sympathies and pure affections, without which no system of education can be perfect, and for the want of which, were want of mathematical and scientific training appears essentially defective must be emphasized in education. The most highly developed power of the pure intellect comprises light to us as Bacon's phrase: 'Understanding will make a great thinker but it will not make a great man.'"
